Throughout the world, seafarers face hardship and danger every day to keep our global economy afloat. They live a tough life, working long hours in all weather, living in confined conditions with limited opportunities for social interaction or relaxation. The work is hard and the level of responsibility is high.

On the INTERNATIONAL DAY OF THE SEAFARER (June 25) we ask you to think of something you own. Whether it's the car you drive, the food you eat, the clothes you wear, the gadgets you use or the furniture you sit on. Chances are it came by SEA! 90% OF EVERYTHING DOES!
